

Neoptolemos Koutsokoumnis graduated from the Archbishop Makarios III Lyceum in Nicosia and then served the Cyprus National Guard as second lieutenant for a period of 2 years. After finishing his army service in 2009 he moved to Greece where he studied in the “Electrical and Computer Engineering” Department of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, from where he graduated in 2014. Afterwards, he continued his studies in the United Kingdom and more specifically at the University College London (UCL), from where he received a postgraduate degree in “MSc Engineering with Finance” in 2016. He started his professional career in London where he worked for a period of 2,5 years in a private company in the sector of power grids and energy. Since July 2019 he works as an officer in the Energy & Environment Division of the Cyprus Employers and Industrialists Federation (OEB).