

Kyriacos Angelides

Kyriacos Angelides graduated from Acropolis Lyceum, Nicosia and after his military service as a cadet officer he went for studies to the United Kingdom. He graduated in 1998 from the University of East Anglia with BA in Economics, and a Master's degree in Industrial Relations & Human Resource Management, from Keele University in 1999.

He worked for two years in a multinational company based in Nicosia as a Human Resource Management Executive and in 2002 he started working at the Cyprus Employers & Industrialists Federation (OEB).

Through his experience initially as an Officer at the Industrial Relations & Labour Law Department and subsequently at the Business Development & Economic Affairs Department and as a Business Associations Coordinator in 2013, he has worked in providing business services to enterprises and Business Associations - Members of OEB, organisation of conferences, training seminars, participation in surveys, representation of OEB at councils and at committees at the House of the Representatives.