

Markella Papanicolaou

Markella Papanicolaou graduated from the Department of Economics in the University of Cyprus and holds a Master's Degree in Environmental Sciences with Specialization in Environmental Economics and Natural Resources from the Dutch University of Wageningen. During her studies in the Netherlands she participated in group-works related to the environment in several cities within the country but also in Portugal and Belgium.

At the beginning of her career (2016) she started working as project coordinator at the non-profit organization AKTI Research and Research Center, where she was coordinating projects related to environmental issues. She gained experience in organizing awareness-raising campaigns and events / seminars / workshops on capacity-building and education activities. She joined OEB's workforce in May 2019, as Energy & Environment officer.