

Marcos Kallis

Marcos Kallis graduated from the English School, Nicosia and after his service in the National Guard, went on to study in the United Kingdom. In 2001 he graduated from Keele University with a Bachelor of Science in Management Science and Computer Science.

He worked for three years in businesses providing professional and IT services while also attending courses for a Postgraduate Degree in Business Administration at the Cyprus International Institute of Management (CIIM).

In 2005 he was appointed by the Cyprus Employers & Industrialists Federation (OEB) initially as an Officer in the Management Development Department and later as an Officer in the Business Development & Economic Affairs Department. His duties include providing professional services to businesses companies and professional associations, organising conferences and training programs and writing articles related to economics, business, innovation and other topics. Combining knowledge and skills, he contributed to the construction and administration of OEB's electronic communication and online promotion as well as to the process of technologically upgrading OEB.

He participates as a representative of OEB in bodies, councils and committees while at the same time he has experience in European funded programs, surveys and studies. As part of his duties, he has also represented OEB in conferences, seminars and meetings organised by international institutions such as the European Commission, BusinessEurope, European Economic and Social Committee (EESC) and the International Labour Organization (ILO).