About the Master class

This two-day training program equips HR and Management professionals with strategies and tools to align HR Metrics and Analytics with business strategy.

Participants will benchmark world-class practices, measure HR impact, forecast workforce trends, optimize costs and develop data-driven insights.

By fostering a culture of continuous improvement and strategic decision-making, the program enables companies to innovate, strengthen competitiveness and become employers of choice.

Aims of the Master class

This two-day seminar will equip participants with the tools, techniques, and practical knowledge to:

- Align business strategy with HR metrics, AI tools, and informed managerial judgment.
- Distinguish between analysis, measurement, and measurement for impact, ensuring that metrics drive strategic value.
- Leverage AI, analytics, and business intelligence tools to forecast workforce trends and support scenario planning.
- Calculate and interpret key HR costs (recruitment, turnover, training) and link them to business performance.
- Apply international best practices by benchmarking against world-class companies and adapting lessons to the Cypriot context.
- Create reliable data systems with clear protocols for collection, governance, and quality assurance.
- Design an actionable roadmap that links HR metrics directly to long-term organizational transformation and success.
- Walk away from this seminar with Tools and techniques for immediate results

Transforming Organizations through Strategic HR Metrics and Analytics

Programme Leader

Sylvia Zachariah - World Class Consultant

A successful consultant, practitioner and Investors in People Assessor. Throughout her professional life, she gained practical and academic insights, which now conveys to audiences in a way that enthuses and empowers them to want to implement better approaches. Her Investors In People work provides direct and indirect consultancy support. She has worked with a wide range of organizations across all sectors, which has taught her a great deal about how to do things well and what excellence should look like

In previous work she gained practical experience as Operations Manager, HR Manager and Director. She lived and worked in many countries including the USA / Singapore / India / Lebanon / Thailand and Spain, she has gained an excellent understanding of cultural differences and that "one size – does not fit all", which is invaluable when sharing knowledge and experience. She approaches her training and hands-on support in a pragmatic way – using academic knowledge, but contextualizing it in a practical way so that business and individuals can actually apply this knowledge to the benefit of their organization.
